BAY ST. LOUIS, MISS. FRIDAY, APRIL 28, 1950

VOL. 59 — NO. 17

Observations...

By the Editor

A survey of the traffic over the Bay of St. Louis bridge will start Friday morning and continue through Tuesday. Each motorist will be stopped and delayed about a minute to answer a few questions. It is hoped through this medium to ascertain the number of motorists who would use the bridge if it were a toll facility, and to determine the travel habits of the motorists in this area. The survey will have an important bearing on the type of bridge to be built and the rate of toll to be established. This information will be turned over to the Trustees for its use in establishing the toll rate, the amount of bonds to be issued and the rate of interest to be paid on the bonds. The location of the bridge, is of course, one of the most important factors in the minds of the people of Bay St. Louis at this time. Bear in mind, you folks, who are directly interested in this matter have been at fever heat. It is better not let the temperature cool off. It will probably be some time before this question is finally decided, just keep beating the path. It will bring results. Going to sleep on the job may cause a sad awakening. The Mayor and Commissioners made a slight attempt to fix the street at the postoffice. But, boys remember the mere fillings of a hole does not do the job. The drainage has to be corrected. A hole in, and there is nothing built to drain the water to it. It is going to take a little grader work. Why not complete the job once and for all. The mudholes are there this morning. We are grateful to our neighbors, the telephone employees, for calling off their strike for the time being. We dreamed the idea of a picket line in front of our office. And too, we just hated the idea of not hearing that confounded telephone ring. Coffee day, for the benefit of the Cancer Fund Drive, sponsored by the merchants and restaurant operators of Bay St. Louis is indeed a splendid gesture on their part for a good cause. We were taken to task by a young lady for our write up last week about the St. Stanislaus Band being the only band in Class CC competition in the State band contest to receive 4 superior ratings. We were challenged as to the correctness of this statement by the young lady who refused to give her name. We suggested to her that she should have the courage to say who she was, and if we were wrong we certainly would issue a correction. Every person should have the courage of their convictions and certainly we should inculcate into our youth the teachings that in this country we have the freedom of speech. We would have had a great admiration for this child if she had been outspoken and open and above board. And too, St. Stanislaus is a Bay St. Louis institution, it has brought much honor and glory to Bay St. Louis in the field of education, athletics, music, etc., why then, should anyone who has the interest of Bay St. Louis at heart want to see them deprived of the honors justly due them. There should be a spirit of cooperation among the school children of Bay St. Louis, regardless of which school they attend, we need more of this not only in Bay St. Louis, but throughout the Country, there is already too much hate and prejudice in this world. The problem lies in the hands of those in authority in the schools.

Squires Leaves On Assignment

H. H. Squires left this week on assignment to take pictures of spots of interest in this locality for nationally known magazines. He is accompanying Mrs. Minnie Mae Kerr, Chicago, the well-known short story writer, who is starting the first of a series of photographic essays for magazines. These shots he is taking will be used for such magazines as "Coronet," "Colliers," "Field and Stream," "Flight," "Outdoors men." They will consist of short series on Child Life in the Bayou Country; History of Lost Island; History of Bayou La Fourche; the history of Golden Meadows which is the longest road in the world, 120 miles; Bird Life on Avery's Island; the Salt Mines on Avery's Island; and Deep Sea Fishing.

ELLIS GUILLORY RESIGNS COACHING JOB

Ellis Guillory has tendered his resignation as Bay High Athletic Director after three years of service there. Mr. Guillory has accepted a position with the New Orleans Academy, private school for boys in New Orleans, which has just closed its thirty-seventh session. He will begin work there in September. At the close of this session's work at Bay High in June, Mr. and Mrs. Guillory will leave for Cape Cod, Massachusetts, where Mr. Guillory will be director of a Boys Summer Camp through July and August. ACCEPT RESIGNATION It is with deep regret that the school board, accepted Mr. Guillory's resignation. This new position offers a substantial financial benefit and professional advancement. In his resignation to the Board Mr. Guillory said "I want to take this opportunity to thank you for accepting my family in your community. We have striven to become a part of your community and hate to leave our many friends." ATHLETIC PROGRAM Mr. Guillory built an outstanding athletic program in the school and instituted a summer program, including the different age groups which offered swimming, softball and other sports. Both Mr. and Mrs. Guillory helped lay the foundation of the Youth Center which compares with any on the coast. Mr. Guillory, a member of the Bay St. Louis Rotary Club, was on the club's board of directors. During his work here Bay High captured the county track championship, Cross Country Mile Run Championship and won the county track tournament each of the three years. GRADUATE OF L. S. U. Mr. Guillory is 26 years of age, holds a BS and MS degree from L. S. U. with a major in Physical Education, and athletic coaching. He was on the football squad during his senior year at LSU upon his returning from service in the Army. He received his letter in Track in his senior year. He is married to the former Miss Elaine Delery of New Orleans and they have a nine month old daughter, Susan Guillory.

MISSIONARY SISTERS ARRIVE AT KILN

Sisters Barbara Ann, Mary Ellen and Adele, Missionary Servants of the Most Blessed Trinity, arrived in Kiln, Mississippi April 17 to assist in the parish work of The Church of the Annunciation and its missions under the direction of Missionary Servants of the Most Holy Trinity with Rev. Father Francis X. Toner, M. S. S. T., in charge. In 1916 the Very Rev. Thomas A. Judge founded the Sisters community and in 1929 the Brothers and Priests received their approbation.

5 County Representatives Make Annual Farm Tour

The annual South Mississippi Farm Tour jointly sponsored by the Mississippi Bankers' Association, Mississippi State College and the Federal Reserve Banks of St. Louis and Atlanta, and their Memphis and New Orleans branches was conducted on the L. A. Knott Farm near Hattiesburg, April 19. Mr. Leigh Watkins, Jr., Secretary of the Mississippi Bankers' Association, Jackson, Mississippi was in charge of the program. The L. A. Knott Farm, comprising 617 acres, was a good demonstration set up. Three phases of agriculture were taken up, first, poultry; second, livestock and pasture; and third, timber. Mr. and Mrs. Knott had approximately 2,000 New Hampshire reds, with 1200 broiler size now and almost ready for the market. They also keep about 600 laying hens. Mr. Knott, who for about fifteen years had native range cattle, purchased a pure bred Aberdeen Angus bull in 1940. Since that time he purchased registered males, saving his best heifers and disposing of the others. He now has approximately 60 head of fine grade Angus cattle. His pasture development program is equally as good with approximately sixty acres of white Dutch clover at this time. He has had approximately 200 acres either in permanent pasture or cultivation. Before the war, Mr. Knott was growing a large acreage of cotton and corn, but with the coming of the war and the shortage of labor he was forced to change over from row cropping to broadcast. He says he has made more money on less acreage as a result of the change over than he had ever made before. With approximately 420 acres in timber, he has done a very good job of selective cutting and turpentine. Income for turpentine alone averaged $500.00 per year, Mr. Knott added. Those attending from Hancock County were Sam Whitfield, Ocala Delph, E. E. Briland, and Howard F. Simmons, County Agent, all of Bay St. Louis; and Alfred Wittorf, Rt. 3, Picayune. Following the adjournment of the meeting at the Knott farm Wednesday afternoon, the group from Hancock County visited the E. and M. Ranch, three miles north of Brooklyn, owned by E. C. Simmons, Hattiesburg, Miss. There they saw the registered herd of herford cattle on a white Dutch pasture and a reseeded crimson clover pasture. The group then went to Columbia to Oaklawn Dairy, where they saw various fields of white Dutch, regular crimson clover, reseeded crimson clover, oats, 3½ fescue, rye grass, and the herd of registered dairy cattle on the farm.

The Sisters of the order do not wear veils as the nature of their work prohibits them from so doing; their garb consists of a black dress with a white collar and cuffs and a black hat and coat. VARIED ACTIVITIES As they are missionaries, the Sisters have a varied line of activity. They do shepherding or preventive work, that is, they seek children on streets and homes and take them to Mass, Confession and Holy Communion. They instruct children, particularly those attending public school, and adults, individually or in groups. Social work is a part of their activities also conducting Catholic Charities Bureaus. In missionary nursing they have a hospital in the South; they visit in the homes and hospitals and watch patients' spiritual needs in nonsectarian hospitals; and they conduct clinics. Along the line of settlement house work, they have kindergartens, recreational activities, clubs and classes, dramatics, domestic science, etc. This particular order of nuns is located in seventeen dioceses of the United States; two dioceses in Puerto Rico; one in Cuba, through 48 Missionary Cenacles and 160 missions. START SCHOOL Rev. Father Toner recently purchased a building behind the rectory that he, with the help of his assistant, Father Fidelis and members of the community, has renovated to house the new Catholic school where these Sis-

Commission Conducts Bridge Traffic Survey

K. of C. Initiate Six Candidates

The first step in plans to replace the present Bay bridge will take place here today, Friday, April 28, according to Highway Commissioner John D. Smith, with a survey of traffic using the bridge. The study will be extensive, Mr. Smith advises, and will have an important bearing on the type of bridge to be built and the rate of toll to be established. Construction of a toll bridge here and at Pascagoula was authorized earlier this month after the governor signed a bill introduced by Senator Billy Meadows of Gulfport which set up a "toll authority" for that purpose. 35 NEW MEMBERS In all thirty-five new members were taken into the various Councils along the Coast. The new members according to their council cities are Bay St. Louis: Henry Doussan, James Mauffray, Albert Kranke, Luke Scianna, Michael S. Powers and Teddy Morrell, Jr. Gulfport: Louis P. Doleac, Adrian V. Dubuisson, Leo K. Crapo, Joseph A. Schloegel, Ernest Denarret, Edward N. Collins, Mayo Broussard, Eugene C. Youso, Edward R. Miller, Charles J. D'Angelo, James E. Dubuisson, Frank E. Bertucci, Elmer T. Ford, Thaddeus R. Brady, George A. Rogers, William H. Starr and Vincent D. Alfonso. Hattiesburg: Mike Pritchard, Andre J. Carroll, Jr., MD, J. E. Harrington, and W. P. Grimsly. Biloxi: Anthony J. Vannella. Meridian: John A. Holt, John Lattanzio, Alfonso Priete, James W. Buchara, Arthur L. Lenahan, Joseph B. Haul and J. V. Adams, Jr., Gulfport; M. A. Rosemann, Hattiesburg; C. J. Thomas, Marquette Council, New Orleans; J. P. Myers, state secretary and L. A. Koenen, past state deputy. A. U. Chamber of Commerce Urges Support of The Reserve Forces

The Hancock County Chamber of Commerce is cooperating with other chambers, trade associations and the Chamber of Commerce of the United States in urging full support by employers of the current civilian reserve recruiting program for the U. S. armed forces.

Blue Bottle Students Stage An Art Exhibit

The Blue Bottle Studio opened on May 3, 1949 with three pupils—adult novices—and this May the enrollment has grown to twelve enthusiastic workers, ten of whom have exhibits in the impromptu showing now being held at Hotel Reed and which will continue through Sunday. Illness prevented Mrs. Joseph Scharrf and Mrs. Joseph Kern from entering their work. HELP CANCER DRIVE The present exhibition of these art and craft works is an outcome of an intense drive to draw a great number to Hotel Reed on Coffee Day for the Cancer Drive fund, and with one accord the class arranged this exhibit in two hours. The object of these classes was first and foremost for relaxation for busy housewives from pressing duties. They have now developed into a study of local color, development of individual technique in preferred medium working directly from objects. STAGED OUTDOOR EXHIBIT The members of the class are also members of the Gulf Coast Art Association which has held two exhibits in the past year. The class staged an outdoor exhibit in the Pirate Alley, New Orleans, art school by invitation on Saturday of last week. Mrs. Jones, director and teacher of this work, is a Mississippian and a graduate of the Newcomb College of art school in New Orleans. She has held a position in Art and Kindred Fields in a number of Southern States. In the fifty pictures that are now on exhibition attention is being drawn to "Frog in the Middle," "Purple Moon," "Oriental Reflections," "Cold Plate," "Fog Scene," "Little Red House," "Johnny," "Mending," "Perspective," "Mississippi Marsh," "Yacht Club," "State Street," "Cherokee Roses," "Wisteria," "Red Camellias," "Locus Tree," "The White House," "The Shack." CLASS EXHIBITORS Members of the class exhibiting are Mesdames Margaret Backman, Pauline Boys, Pass Christian; Lucy Carroll, Rosalind Cooper, Lois Henderson, B. E. Husband, Frank Reindl, H. A. Oxenham and Misses Levia Engman and Fanny Marquez. The exhibit of craft work was done by Misses Levia Engman, Fann Marquez and Mrs. Frank Cooper, who have just completed a course at the Kraae Craft school at Long Beach.

IMPORTANCE OF RESERVES

The importance of these civilian reserves is pointed out in a letter received today by President H. H. Shattuck of the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce from National Chamber President Herman W. Steinkraus. Praising past efforts of employers throughout the nation in support of the reserves, Mr. Steinkraus observed that in many cases the civilian components of the Army, Navy, Air Force, and Marine Corps have not been entirely successful in obtaining the needed recruits. BENEFITS "They need your help and I urge your cooperation with the local commands to aid them in building their required strength," he stated, emphasizing the following salient facts: 1. The men in these reserves are to be highly trained, serving on a voluntary basis. Together with the professional establishment, the reserves will become the nucleus of our fighting strength in a national emergency. 2. These civilian reserves need to be strengthened, particularly by enlisted men who should be urged to join. 3. Our traditional national security policy relies on strong organized citizen forces which make possible armed forces of a minimum size consistent with national defense. 4. The only other alternative would be the maintenance of a professional peacetime armed force of far greater size than our nation has known heretofore, and at a prohibitive cost. 5. The recruiting efforts of organized reserves need particularly the support of employers whose employees are enrolled in these civilian components. The National Chamber adopted a policy at its last Annual Meeting urging the immediate strengthening of all reserve components and suggesting that employers grant their employees necessary leave for reserve training whenever possible.

INTERVIEW MOTORISTS

Surveys of this nature are common in areas where traffic habits are under study. A traffic control point will be established at the west end of the bridge and all drivers will be interviewed. Each motorist will be delayed about a minute, experienced surveys estimate. All motorists will be required to stop and answer several questions. Complete and fair answers are essential, surveys state, and complete cooperation is hoped for, Mr. Smith said. No drivers will be compelled to answer, and no effort will be made by interviewers to associate answers and drivers or vehicles. All information will be confidential, it was said, correct answers are vital to the provision of adequate highway transportation facilities in this area of the state. THE QUESTIONS Four simple questions will be asked each motorist. These are: 1) Where did your trip begin? 2) Where will your trip end? 3) Is this trip made on business or for pleasure? 4) If the bridge were a toll facility, with a toll of 25c, would you have taken this trip?

MEETS WITH MAYOR

The State Manager and Field Supervisor of Highway Planning of the State Highway Department met with Mayor Warren Carver last week to work out local details concerning the survey. Mayor Carver pledged his full support and cooperation, and advised he would ask all citizens to cooperate with the interviewers to make the survey a success. Questioning will begin Friday and extend through Tuesday with staggered eight-hour shifts to cover 24 hours. It is understood that signs, flares, and caution indicators will advise the traveling public about the survey while it is under way.

Joy Carr, Outstanding Girl In County, Receives Answer To Challenge of New Orleans Athletes

The only one of nine children that cares for sports, Joy Carr, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Carr of Clermont Harbor, has been selected as the outstanding girl athlete for Hancock County. "LIKES SPORTS" Joy, who was born November 7, 1934, "just likes sports." In the recent County Field Meets she displayed her ability to keep up with the boys by winning the trophy for the outstanding girl athlete and five medals for placing second in the 5-yard dash; first in the 75-yard dash; first in broad jump, 60-100 pound class; first in broad jump, unlimited; fourth place in relay race; and fourth place in ball throwing. Although she only became interested in sports two years ago, she won honors in the first field meet she entered. In the 1948-49 session she placed first in the 50-yard dash; first in the 75-yard dash; first in the broad jump, 60-100 pound class; second in the broad jump, unlimited. In just two years Joy has developed herself into an outstanding athlete and has won almost every honor for girls in her weight and class in Hancock County. PICTURE ON TV Saturday night Joy's picture along with part of her story appeared over a WDSU TV program. A student in the eighth grade at the Clermont Harbor elementary school, Joy has three sisters and two brothers who do not particularly care for sports; so Joy takes part in the activities for her whole family. ACCEPTS CHALLENGE Last week Joy challenged all New Orleans girl playground athletes because she wanted to participate in athletic events sponsored by the New Orleans Recreation Department that would offer her some competition. Within an hour after her challenge was issued in the New Orleans Item it was accepted. 16-year-old Anna Marie Ciravalo, who has never been defeated in the broad jump, PSAL and Playground, over a period of seven years, and holds the city playground record of 18 feet 8 inches, has accepted the challenge. She has been on championship volleyball and basketball teams for the Cabrin playground, on the Newcomb ball and softball teams, and has triumphed in innumerable PSAL and Playground foot races. Her best time being 6.8 seconds for the 60-yard dash. At this writing Joy had not been notified of all the plans for the meeting, but it is almost definite that they will meet in the Downtown Playground, meet at City Park May 13. Joy will have to uphold her reputation of being one of the best girl athletes in this section by defeating one of New Orleans' best. This would be an interesting contest between these well-matched youngsters.

Members of the American Legion present at the driving of piling for their new pier, meeting house and concession, last Friday, were Chris Reah, who is in charge of the piling driving; Dr. B. L. Ramsey, member of the building committee; Fred Fayard, Commander of the post; Mayor Warren Carver, Osmond A. Blaize, adjutant, Dr. Laurent Dickson, chairman of the building committee; John Rutherford, member of the building committee; and Bert Estapa who is also on the building committee.

A Challenge To Our Ingenuity

What is it that we need in Bay St. Louis, Waveland, Clermont Harbor to attract visitors? Picnic grounds and some sand beaches we would say would nearly answer the question. We are convinced that many people would rather come here to spend the weekends if it were possible for them to have a place to spread their lunches and to relax and enjoy themselves, basking in the sunshine on the shores of God's greatest gift to us, the Mississippi Sound and the lovely Bay of St. Louis.

We, in Hancock County, are gradually awakening. Before long, it is to be hoped, we will have a new hospital, a public health center and a public pier. At a recent meeting of the Board of Supervisors, a resolution was passed for the issuance of $50,000.00 of County bonds to supplement federal and state funds for the building of a hospital and health center; and on last Friday, the Clement R. Bontemps Post of the American Legion began driving piling for the erection of their temporary meeting place, public pier and concession. Their plans call for the pumping in of a sand beach if finances permit. This will be a step closer to the goal, but the sand beach of the Legion alone certainly would not be able to accommodate the great number of people who would be attracted by such facilities. The sponsors of these projects are to be commended.

We speak of bringing payrolls into our County. Little do we visualize, the greatest asset we have today is our beach front, and a definite program to develop its possibilities may mean the end of building castles in the air.

In the years past, we in the coastal section of Hancock County have always depended upon the people of New Orleans as our vacationists. In late years there has been a tendency for them to bypass us for the other side of the Mississippi Coast, or for the shores of Lake Pontchartrain at Mandeville. The facilities of good beaches are available to them in these localities. We should realize a visitor one day may mean a permanent resident another day. This section has developed tremendously in the past few years. New homes and new faces are everywhere in our midst. This is a healthy sign, and in our calculations we must not overlook our own people, they too, seek moments of relaxation. Just cheek the other side of the Bay and see for yourself, and bear in mind that other localities are reaping the reward, while we sit idly by twiddling our thumbs.

We have many opportunities in our midst, but apparently we are overlooking the greatest of all in not developing our most valuable asset, our beach front. The question which arises of course is the cost and who will bear the burden. The cost of such projects are always a bugaboo as it was on the repair of the beach road. With the exercise of sound judgment, and the cooperation of our County and Municipal Officials, with the aid of our civic organizations, what is now a dream may become a reality.

The start of such a project may be only the beginning of a chain of prosperity, to which numerous links could be added; but it takes a wide awake citizenship to make a lively wide awake community that will prosper with the times.

It stands as a challenge to our ingenuity.

Cancer Researchers Tackling Virus Link

In recent years, the cause of certain diseases has been traced to a virus, a molecule that seems to bridge the gap between living and inert matter. Some kinds of pneumonia, polio, smallpox and even the common cold are among virus diseases.

Does a virus cause cancer? So far there is no evidence whatsoever that human cancers are caused by them. On the other hand, some scientists are convinced that they are at the root of a cancer of connective tissue in chickens, skin cancer in rabbits, breast cancer in mice and cancer of the kidney in frogs.

Viruses are tiny bits of protein, with properties of living matter in that they can multiply under certain conditions and that they can be "killed" by extreme heat, prolonged cold and very acid and alkaline conditions, as well as by the body's own defense systems. They are so small that it is difficult to see them when magnified 100,000 times under the electron microscope.

A virus-caused disease could be cured by drugs. And theoretically, at least, prevented by immunological methods like vaccination.

Under American Cancer Society research grants, scientists are exploring the possibilities that viruses may cause certain kinds of cancer. Dollars given this month will support cancer research next year. Help Science Help You. Strike Back: Give to Conquer Cancer.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Thomas "Burns"

Oklahoma's surly Sen. "Cotton Ed" Thomas was so burned up after this column corrected his version of General Bradley's secret testimony on the possibility of war that Thomas has now ordered a senate subcommittee to investigate. The subcommittee is supposed to find out how this column got General Bradley's secret testimony. Senator Thomas had reported to the press that the chief of staff was not worried about war with Russia. To keep the record straight, however, this column gave a word-by-word account of Bradley's remarks, which differed considerably from Senator Thomas's version.

Following this, "Cotton Ed" named three senators to investigate this column: the O'Mahoney of Wyoming, William Robertson of Virginia and Homer Ferguson of Michigan. They are now checking on all the secret transcripts to find which one might have slipped into Drew Pearson's hands. What stumps the investigators, however, is that the column, also quoted what General Bradley said off-the-record which doesn't even appear in the stenographic transcripts.

So far the subcommittee suspects a certain Republican senator of leaking the story to Pearson, but I can assure the subcommittee that its chief suspect wasn't even present during Bradley's testimony.

More to Investigate

What Bradley said, summed up briefly, was that Russia won't have the industrial capacity nor the atomic stockpile to start a war for at least two years. However, he warned that Russia is a bully nation and might get careless whom she pushes around. He also refused to predict what Russia might do after two years.

General Bradley also made other significant observations the public is entitled to know but which this column didn't have space to print in the story now being investigated. So here is some more for the investigators to investigate.

Sen. Burnet Maybank of South Carolina questioned Bradley sharply on whether the 13 billion-dollar budget was an absolute minimum. "I certainly would hate to see the figure become any smaller," replied Bradley. Then he declared flatly: "This amount was determined before we learned that Russia had the atomic bomb."

He assured, however, that he was willing to go along with a 13-billion-dollar budget for the sake of economy.

"In other words," suggested Massachusetts Sen. Leverett Saltonstall, "as a good citizen you believe we should live within our means."

"Yes, but I would like to qualify that," Bradley hesitated. "You don't want to qualify the good citizen part," smiled Saltonstall.

Then Bradley explained: "The eventual strength of our country depends upon its industrial capacity. We must not destroy that by spending too much money from year to year. So if I came here recommending 30 billion or 40 billion for defense, you should start searching for a new chairman of the joint chiefs of staff."

"It is true that our forces—ground, air and navy—are not sufficient now to fight a major war," Bradley emphasized. "Nor do we expect to be sufficient for such a calamity by the end of fiscal year 1951," he continued. "But I feel that we are going to achieve the necessary force to prevent a disastrous attack from crippling this nation. I also believe that we will be able to win a war if it comes."

He predicted that this country's "mobilization base"—its industrial potential, reserve forces and military education system—would "win a war if it is thrust upon us."

"This is a risk that we take," solemnly added the chief of staff.

Unification?

Outspoken Adm. Dan Gallery, whose ideas about an all-powerful navy have got him into the military doghouse, was brooding over a fire that damaged his home.

"I don't blame it on the air force," he confided to an air force friend. "I think Secretary of Defense Johnson started it."

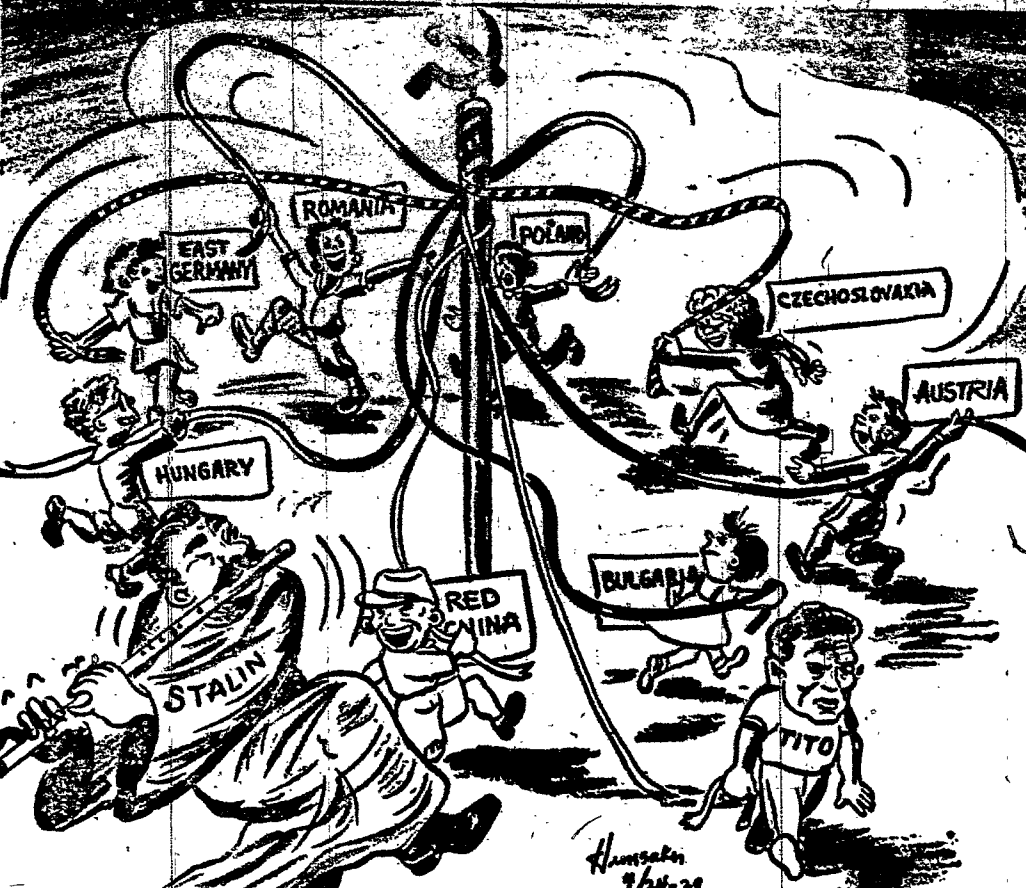

Congress Sky-Pilot

New Chaplain Bernard Braskamp is probably the first chaplain in congressional history who doesn't use a prepared script in delivering the opening prayer before the house of representatives. When Rayburn recently complimented him on it the chaplain replied: "Mr. Speaker, I can't pray sincerely by reading something I have prepared. That would be like telling the good Lord: 'Look, Lord, this is my prayer for tomorrow, so be ready for it.'"

Happy Days of May Day

BROADWAY AND MAIN STREET

Why Imagine Your Own Plots? Real Life Offers Them Gratis

By BILLY ROSE

In Battle Creek, Michigan, on July 30, 1949, a Mrs. Zilpha Perske asked her husband for a hundred dollars, and when he went to a bedroom, took a rifle from the closet and shot herself.

Mrs. Perske hung on for two days, and during that time her husband not only gave his blood to keep her going but persuaded friends to do the hundred dollars for—surprise him on his birthday with a new hunting rifle.

One night in the Spring of 1924, in the middle of the Illinois flatlands, the engineer and fireman of a fast mail train found themselves looking into the barrels of a couple of guns. The men behind the guns told them to stop the train and back it up to a crossing they had just passed.

At the crossing, four men wearing gas masks stepped out of a sedan. After shooting the glass out of the mail-car window, they tossed a tear bomb inside, and when the mail clerks came out the bandits went in. When they drove off they took with them 60 bags of registered mail which contained two million dollars in cash, jewels and negotiable securities.

The case was assigned to Bill Fahy, the post office department's ace inspector, and in a matter of hours, road blocks were set up, suspects were being questioned, and detectives from New York to San Francisco were on a 24-hour shift.

Two days after this historic feat, one of the army of dicks working on the case got a phone call from an underworld character who offered to give him the name of the man who had masterminded the stick-up. His motive for squealing, he said, was revenge, and when his name was checked the man he named was arrested and convicted, and most of the two million recovered. The thief, as corny and contrived as it may seem, was Inspector Bill Fahy.

When the woman got back to her flat, she found her second husband had committed suicide. A note explained that, under the circumstances, it was the only decent thing to do.

149,000,000 People Headed for Poorhouse

"I would like to point out a few facts our research department has obtained—(apropos a Federal budget of $44,000,000,000):

"1. If everyone in the United States cashed in all his life insurance policies, the total would amount to $44,000,000,000. This would not be enough money to run the Government for 1 year.

"2. If every urban home owner in this country sold his home, the total would amount to $30,000,000,000. That's just enough to run the Government for 8 months.

"3. If every farmer in this country sold his farm, farm equipment, and livestock, the total would amount to $25,000,000,000. The Government could not run for 7 months on that amount of money.

"4. If every industry converted its net working capital into cash, the total would amount to $39,000,000,000. That's hardly enough to run the government for 11 months.

"In 1932, Franklin D. Roosevelt, then a presidential candidate, had this to say about Government spending: 'Any government, like any family, can for a year spend a little more than it earns. But you and I know that continuation of that habit means the poorhouse.'

"All this leads me to ask you one question: Is there room in the poorhouse for 149,000,000 people?"

Poor Record

THE SECOND SESSION of the 81st congress thus far has made a poor record on behalf of the people. It may be that it will follow the same pattern as the first session when it ran along for months without doing anything much, but President Truman kept pounding away until finally he came out surprisingly well with his Fair Deal program.

It is suggested that the President, in his scheduled May 16 speech at Chicago, again lay his program on the line and tell the people. Here's what I have asked; here's what congress has done. That may act as a stimulus.

One of the backward steps taken by this congress, however, was passage of the Kerr bill which takes independent gas companies from under jurisdiction of the federal power commission. Certainly these companies, which by the way include most of the big oil companies, were not after this bill to lower natural gas prices. The only alternative is that they seek increased prices for natural gas for cooking and industrial purposes from millions of users.

Ironically, Senator Kerr of Oklahoma was one of the staunch supporters of the public power issue. The first session of this congress when the congress adopted a policy of transmission of public power over publicly owned transmission lines. But the senator, himself a millionaire oil and gas producer of Oklahoma, adopted the opposite policy with reference to the natural gas bill and constituted himself a one-man lobby for its successful passage by the senate by a vote of 44 to 38.

It will be remembered that an identical bill introduced by former Sen. E. H. Moore, Republican of Oklahoma, failed to pass the 80th congress when the Republicans were in control. But in this Democratic controlled congress, a majority of 22 Republicans lined up with 16 Democrats against the bill while 28 Democrats and 16 Republicans went down the line with Senator Kerr for his one-man bill. On this measure, Democratic National Chairman William M. Boyle went on record as opposing the measure against Kerr, who is one of the angels of the Democratic party.

Proponents of the measure passed the word around they had obtained the blessing of President Truman, although it does not seem logical he would favor it if his national chairman was opposing it. It remains to be seen at this writing whether or not the President will veto the measure.

Avoid Controversy

What has happened in this second session of the 81st congress is that during the first session the Democratic leadership went ahead on more or less non-controversial measures, or those they figured they could pass and left the tough and controversial measures for the second session.

For instance, during that first session the congress passed a complete foreign policy trio of measures including the North Atlantic pact, Reciprocal trade agreements and extension of ECA. They passed a housing bill, extension of rent control, raising of minimum wages from 40 to 75 cents an hour.

The house passed the measure extending social security and increasing benefits. The congress passed the agricultural act of 1949, provided for grain storage facilities for the CCC, provided for rural telephone under REA, extension of crop insurance, increased aid to hospital construction and increased medical research; ratified the International wheat agreement, passed a stand-by program for public works.

Predictions

But this session likely will see only the extension of social security passed by the senate, a liberalized displaced persons bill and appropriation bill which will slash probably a billion and a half from the budget, slash ECA, and reduce excise taxes by approximately a billion dollars. What they may do with the other Fair Deal measures after the President's grass roots speeches is conjecture.

A "Probe" Congress

What this congress has been doing instead of taking care of legislation is probing everything in sight from cellar to garret. It is an investigation congress.

Here are a few of the probes that have been or are now going on: the "Commie" probe of the state department by a senate committee; house committee probe of lobbying; senate probe of food prices; house committee probe of monopoly.

Congressional Sidelights

By W. M. COLMER

ANNUAL APPROPRIATION BILLS

For the first time in the history of the Congress a one-package appropriation bill is being considered at this session. Heretofore the various subcommittees of the large Appropriations Committee have reported their bills for the various departments of Government and had them considered separately on the floor of both the House and the Senate. Under this experiment all of the major appropriations are included in one bill instead of ten different bills as has been the practice. The bill now before the House for a vote carries the appropriations under the following heads, or chapters:

- I. District of Columbia
- II. Legislative Branch
- III. State, Justice, Commerce and the Judiciary
- IV. Treasury-Post Office
- V. Labor-Federal Security
- VI. Agriculture Department
- VII. Interior Department
- VIII. Independent Offices
- IX. Civil functions (Rivers, harbors, and flood control by the Corps of Engineers)
- X. Defense Establishment (Army, Navy, Air Force)

The biggest items in this bill are 13 billions for the defense establishments and billions for the Veterans Administration. The approximately 19 billions recommended for the defense establishment and the Veterans Administration is approximately 23 of the total amount carried in the bill.

However, this does not account for all the appropriations to be considered at this session for this year. There will be one or more "deficiency" appropriation bills to be considered. The total will run into the astronomical figure of something like forty-two billion dollars. That is the approximate amount recommended by the President in his budget message. However, before the bill has cleared the House there is evidence that there may be further reductions.

This gigantic bill, carrying thousands of various items of the operation of the Government, has already been under consideration for more than ten days on the floor of the House and it would appear that it will be debated and amendments offered to it for at least another ten days.

Two Republican members of Congress have hit upon a unique way of publicizing and protesting their deficit financing. These members, Cole and Kilburn, both of New York, sign all of their letters in red ink.

That there is a real necessity for curtailment of government expenditures is beyond question. That we can not go on spending beyond our income indefinitely is obvious.

At the beginning of the New Deal Program none other than Franklin D. Roosevelt, then a candidate for the Presidency, stated: "Any government, like any family, can for a year spend a little more than it earns, but I know that a continuance of that habit means the poor house."

At the time of the utterance of sound statement, in 1932, it cost four and one-half billion dollars a year to operate our Federal Government.

All of our people realize the potency of this argument. But the trouble is that most people want to reduce government expenses at the other fellows expense. We frequently get letters from some of our constituents urging the reduction in appropriations and then a few days later we get letters from some of these same people protesting a proposed cut in appropriations for something that affects their own pocketbook. Until enough American citizens come to the conclusion that Government expenditures and the necessary taxes therefore must be cut, regardless of some personal sacrifice on their part, there will not be much reduction in expenditures and taxes. However, the indications that our people are awakening to the necessity for drastic action is hopeful.

ARMY REVISES TRAINING POLICY

A revised training policy of the Department of the Army, has placed Company "B" 302nd Amphibian Tractor Battalion in a position to receive pay for two assemblies per month. As a supporting unit in the 25 Division program which has been formulated by the Army, Company "B" will expand to class "A", and receive four paid training assemblies per month after it has been determined that certain qualifications have been fulfilled. Enlistments have been increasing throughout the reserve units in this area, and in view of present strength limitations, it's expected that most units will have reached their authorized strength in a very short time.

Ex-servicemen, and non-ex-servicemen who have completed high school are urged to apply for enlistment prior to the time when the reserve units have been filled. Failure to do this will necessitate applicants being placed on a waiting list, which will mean an indefinite delay for enlistment. Reservists are now given retirement benefits much like those of members of the regular armed forces, and all ex-servicemen are encouraged to investigate the provisions system.

Deticit Spending!

The Federal Government has just taken another plunge into debt by borrowing a billion dollars to pay current bills. It is estimated that the Treasury will be at least $10 billion more in the red in the 15-month period ending in June 1951, which is a peacetime record.

The first session of the present Congress appropriated $51 billion, and no one knows what this session will spend. Government spending which amounted to only 3 percent of our national income in 1900, 12 percent in 1920, is now 20 percent of national income.

Whatever government spends must come out of taxes, and the annual per capita tax which was $109 before the war is now $360. Corporations pay $10.4 billion against $1.5 billion. Individuals pay $18.8 billion against $1.7 billion, and taxes threaten to go even higher.

Government extravagance naturally leads to higher taxes and cheaper money. That Federal Bond you bought ten years ago is actually worth only $60 today in purchasing value. The ten-year bond now worth $60 cost you $75. You paid a $15 premium for the privilege of helping finance the government. There is no more pressing challenge to statesmanship — no more important matter before the nation's leadership than keeping this nation economically sound and financially solvent. It is neither good business nor good government for a nation to go in debt in a period of prosperity.

Our public servants cannot consistently preach thrift to the individual citizen while they live beyond the federal income and squander the people's money in a wanton spending spree.

Only an aroused public opinion can stop this extravagance. The value of your life insurance, your Federal bond and your savings, can only be preserved by economy in government. It is a 100 million times more important that the government live within its means than that the individual save money. Whether the individual or the government, only the frugal flourish.

KILN NEWS

Kiln Seniors Enjoy Commencement Activities

By the Junior-Senior English Class

GRADUATION EXERCISES

Thursday evening, at 8 o'clock in the gymnasium of Kiln High School the Seniors conducted their own graduation. This was the first Commencement at Kiln to be held entirely by students with no outside speakers.

With Mrs. Smith at the piano, the Seniors marched in to "Clayton's Grand March," and took their places on the stage where they sang their class song, the words of which were written by the students themselves and sung to the tune of "Lucky Old Sun."

Father Francis X. Toner, pastor of the Catholic Church of the Annunciation here at Kiln, gave the Invocation which was followed by "Commencement Song," sung by the seniors accompanied by Emma Belle Lee.

Webb Welborn, then delivered the salutatorian's address, "What is the New World," which was the first speech on the theme of the whole program, "The New World."

The president of the class, Jane Haas, spoke on "Freedom for the Individual," which was a further development of the theme.

The class then sang, "The Whifflepoof Song."

Emma Belle Lee, delivered the valedictory, "The Path to Progress."

After the valedictory, the eighth grade marched to the front and, forming a semi-circle before the audience, received their certificates.

Members of the eighth grade class were: Pearlina Deschamps, Jeanette Garriga, Margaret Kline, James Ladner, Jimmy Ladner, Inez Moran, Joseph Moran, Kenneth Nease, Lottie Lou Nease, Betty Jean Travica, Rita Travica and Margy Stiglett.

Four senior boys, Jack Moran, L. J. Bobinger, Webb Welborn and Leroy Cuevas sang "Far Away Places" with Emma Belle Lee at the piano.

Then came the climax of the commencement, the seniors receiving their diplomas, which were delivered by Mr. E. E. Smith, Superintendent of the school.

Mr. Smith also gave out certificates to those students who had a perfect attendance, and medals for distinction in the following: Scholarship, Emma Belle Lee; Athletics, Michael Ladner; Mathematics, Joe Thrash; English, Joyce Shiyon; History, Irma Depre; Activities, Jane Haas. This was followed by the Recessional.

BACCALAUREATE

In the gymnasium of Kiln High School Sunday evening at six o'clock, Father Fidelis conducted services for the Kiln High Seniors. The Seniors marched in to the "March of the Flowers" played on the piano by Mrs. E. E. Smith.

"Whispering Hopes" was sung by the whole senior class, and was followed by "Alleluia" sung by the seniors and eighth grade.

Father Fidelis stressed the fact that so often in trying to find success, people forget our true purpose here in this life, which is really only the beginning. He urged the students to remember the real reasons for our being here.

After the Baccalaureate, the whole audience joined in singing "Onward Christian Soldiers," which was followed by the Recessional.

RECEPTION FOR PARENTS

The Kiln Seniors entertained their parents at a reception Sunday evening in the Lunch Room of Kiln High School. The refreshments consisted of chocolate and coconut cake and coffee which were prepared and served by the lunchroom workers under the direction of Mrs. Jacob Rohm, manager.

In addition to the seniors and faculty, most of the parents were there, making a total of about fifty guests present.

Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Smith, and Mrs. Mary Favre, Home Economics teacher, entertained the senior class and their sponsor, Mrs. Geo. Curet, at a luncheon in the Home Economics Department at noon Monday of last week.

Before going to the Field Meet, given for the county schools Friday of last week, the seniors went on a picnic by Jordan River. The feature of the picnic was "Softball," a game in which everyone present participated.

Wednesday, the seniors and their sponsor, went to Hickory Creek to another picnic. Again they enjoyed games and softball. All the food and drinks they wanted, plus plenty of bright sunshine made this a picnic long-to-be-remembered.

AFTER-GRADUATION SUPPER FOR SENIORS

Immediately after graduation exercises, the seniors left for Picayune where they had supper together at the Kitchennette.

The members of the class present were: Albert Bounds, Lottie Mae Bobinger, L. J. Bobinger, Leroy and Roy Cuevas, Bernice Cuevas, Jane Haas, Theresa LaCoste, Jack and Huey Moran, Virgie McLeod, Emma Belle Lee, Irene Lee, Bobbie Jean Lee, Gean Lee and Webb Welborn, and the sponsor.

The guests present were: Gay Curet, Dolores Carver, Michael Ladner, and Father Fidelis.

The 1950 Seniors of Kiln School have been a most enterprising class.

Out of the proceeds of a dance given at Hallowe'en, they paid expenses for a trip to Jackson, with the exception of gasoline which was furnished by the county department of education. From the money left from that trip and from the proceeds of their class play, they bought their own diplomas, which cost approximately $50.00, and saved their parents that expense; they paid for a trophy case which was built in the workshop under the direction of Mr. Shepherd—most of the work on the case was done by two Sophomore boys, Aristide Cuevas and Edgar Moran. The Seniors presented this case, which takes care of all the trophies on hand and will hold a good many more which the students hope to win in the future, to the school. The materials in the trophy case cost nearly $25.00. The class paid for several parties and picnics which they had during the year.

The "After-Graduation Supper" was paid for largely by funds made by writing this "News" for the Echo.

Then the seniors assisted by several juniors under the direction of the coach, Mr. Percy Garriga, who suggested the idea, and directed the students, solicited ads for commencement programs and thus collected $200.00 which was used to pay the larger part of the cost of jackets for the ball teams, after the cost of printing was deducted.

The seniors also sent and paid for out of class funds flowers to several funerals of relatives of students, and to several members of the class who were sick in the hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Burke and little son, John, from Clearwater, Fla., spent last week with the Jack Lotts.

Lorraine Lott, a junior at L. S. U., was home for the weekend.

Also visiting the Jack Lott home last Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. Russell Rault and daughter, Betty Carol Lassiter, of New Orleans, La., and Mr. Lott's sister, Mrs. Clyde Drummond, also of New Orleans.

Miss Barba Cucullu, of New Orleans, is visiting Gay Curet this week. Both girls are student nurses at Hotel Dieu.

Mrs. Delphine Curet is sick with an ear infection at the home of her son, Mr. Fred Curet.

Miss Lora Lee, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Lee, was married to Mr. Wallace Hass, son of Mrs. Viola Haus, in a quiet ceremony performed by the Rev. Francis X. Toner in the Catholic church at Kiln Saturday morning, April 15.

Father Wolfe was visiting his friends in Kiln and at Rocky Hill and White Cypress this week. Father Wolfe, a former assistant pastor at Kiln, is now located at Port Gibson, Miss.

PINE GROVE NEWS

Visitors in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Mitchell Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. Sam Mitchell, Mr. Carl Fomby and two sons, Mr. and Mrs. Loyd Jones and two children, Mr. and Mrs. Leo Mitchell, Mrs. Tommie Patch and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. O. F. Miller and two daughters, Mr. Oscar Dean, Rev. M. Piquette.

Mrs. Louise Wonen and Mrs. Henry Mitchell spent Monday in New Orleans.

Mrs. T. A. Riggs, who was ill last week, is much better.

LETTERS

The staff on the St. Stanislaus Day School grounds has been damaged to some extent by a group of boys and girls sometime in the late hours of Tuesday night.

Let us say that the staff cost someone money, consider that destroying property. Let's consider that the staff flies the flag of our country, the flag that we, all veterans of Hancock County were in the Armed Forces to fight for, defend and uphold; so let us protect the staff that flies from the staff that has been damaged once, draped the coffin of a departed comrade.

The Legion now calls on everyone to join in helping to protect all flag staffs on school grounds and public places, where our flag we so proudly hail flies from.

Students Present Vocation Skit

The Senior Committee of the S. J. A. Thespian Dramatic Club presented a vocation play, entitled "Vocation Room," to the Sodalists of St. Joseph Academy recently.

Betty Bridge, chairman of the senior committee gave a short introductory talk in which she presented the cast of characters.

In the Vocation Room, girls representing various positions in life were dressed in costumes which complemented the responsibility of the one wearing it.

Ruth and Doris, played by Dianne Reeder and Peggy Morgan walked among the statues and spoke to each one. The statues in turn spoke and gave reasons why they had chosen their vocations. The entertainer, played by Jackie LaNasa, told the girls she likes to dance and sing and demonstrated this with a song, "There's No Tomorrow."

Joyce Ansardi, the nurse, Jean Guthrie, the teacher, and Hope Crasto, the artist, told the girls of the advantages and disadvantages of their various professions.

Jean Guthrie, who portrayed a nun, summed her reason for choosing that particular vocation with the words of Jesus, "And everyone who has left house, or brethren, or sisters, or father, or mother, or wife, or children or lands for my name's sake, shall receive a hundredfold, and shall possess life everlasting."

Louise Piazza and Mary Jane Green, as the business woman and the bride, told why they had chosen their careers and what aspects of them they found difficult.

The curtain closed as all the characters sang a parody on "Now Is the Hour," which stressed the idea of thinking, consulting and praying before choosing a vocation.

Bay High Seniors Give Play April 21

The Bay High senior class, under the direction of Mrs. George-tee B. Hall, their sponsor, presented a three-act stage farce, "His Name was Aunt Nellie," last Friday night.

Archie Baldwin, prosperous small town banker, was played by Ray Hinson, and Bertha, his pleasant wife, by Daun Sellier. Their three grown children, 19, 17 and 15, were played by Carol Lynn Siren, T. J. Bourgeois and Hope Wilkerson. The colored maid, Cleo, was none other than Bill Thomas. Another top roll taken by Odelle Saucier, the neighbor, Ed Saunders. His wife, Mabel, was played by Janet Sellier. Martin Noto hit another high mark playing the part of Jerry Parkman a young actor. Alvin Ruhr was Mr. Van Dilling, president of the bank.

Baldwin and Saunders liked to play the races but this part of their lives they kept from their family.

Archie's daughter wants to marry Jerry and this her father forbids before leaving for a visit to "Aunt Nellie" which meant he was going to the races.

Jerry has been ordered from the house by Archie, but, over-hearing Archie's plans about his make-believe relatives he impersonates "Aunt Nellie." This helps him win the girl he loves.

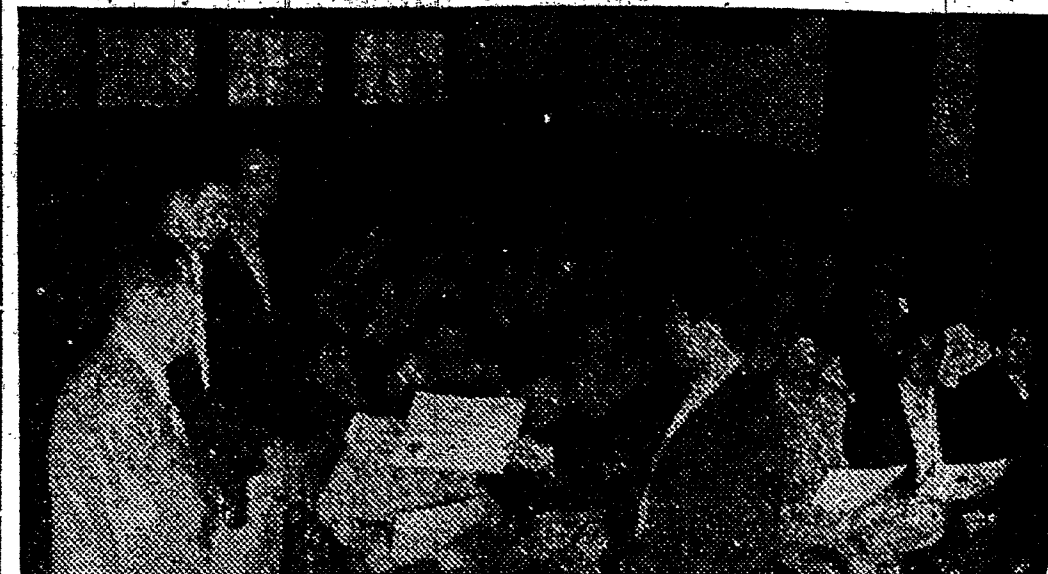

Those assisting in staging the play besides Mrs. Hall were Clyde Favre, stage manager; Myrtle Cook, make-up; Christine Smith and Inez Kingston, tickets; Ruth Carver, Joyce Davis, Lottie Jo Dawsey, Anna Jean Ladner, Miltie Agnes Maskeu, Abbie McArthur, Margaret Ann Murphy, Annie Lou Parker and Clentine Taylor acted as ushers.

CONSIDERED TWICE!

Fact Finding Boards appointed by Presidents Roosevelt and Truman have said these demands were "devoid of merit" and they were

Now the Firemen's leaders seek to paralyze railroad transportation to compel the railroads to employ a wholly unnecessary additional fireman to ride on diesel locomotives. This scheme is plain

FEATHER-BEDDING!

LEADERS of the Firemen's union have called a nationwide strike starting with four great railroads on April 26. These railroads are the New York Central, Pennsylvania, Santa Fe, and Southern.

The union claim that a second fireman is needed on grounds of safety is sheer hypocrisy. Safety has been dragged into this dispute only in an unsuccessful effort to give a cloak of respectability to vicious feather-bedding demands.

After a careful study of the first demands of this union, a Presidential Fact Finding Board on May 21, 1943, reported to President Roosevelt that there was no need for an extra fireman on diesel locomotives.

Again, on September 19, 1949, after a second hearing on the union leaders' demands, a second Board reported to President Truman that: "there presently exists no need for an additional fireman... upon either the ground of safety or that of efficiency and economy of operation."

Safety Record of Diesels is Outstandingly Good

Although the railroads accepted the Board findings, the union leaders have brazenly rejected them. They represent that an extra fireman is needed for "safety" reasons. Here's what the Board had to say on that point:

"The safety and on-time performance of diesel electric locomotives operated under current rules have been notably good....

"Upon careful analysis of the data submitted on safety, we have concluded that no valid reasons have been shown as a support for the Brotherhood proposal under which a fireman would be required to be at all times continuously in the cab of road diesels. The proposal must be rejected."

The real reason behind these demands is that the union leaders are trying to make jobs where there is no work. In other words, a plain case of "feather-bedding."

The railroads have no intention of yielding to these wasteful make-work demands.

"The Safety Record of Diesels is Outstandingly Good..."

PRESIDENTIAL FACT FINDING BOARD REPORT
Read these excerpts from official reports of Presidential Fact Finding Boards:

"The safety record of Diesels is outstandingly good, and it follows that the safety rules now applicable have produced good results."

"The safety and on-time performance of Diesel-electric locomotives operated under current rules indicate that Diesel-electric operation has been safer than steam locomotive operation...."

Remember! These are not statements of the railroads. They are just a few of the many similar conclusions reached by President Truman's Fact Finding Board which spent months investigating the claims of the union leaders.

We are publishing this and other statements to talk to you at first hand about matters which are important to everybody.

Killed by a careless smoker

Forest fires don't just happen. They are caused.

Once this animal roamed through green and growing forests. Then a careless individual started a forest fire. The fire cost this animal its life.

Forest fires not only kill wildlife, fish, and burn timber, but also destroy recreation areas and cause soil erosion.

Nine out of ten fires can be prevented because they are man-caused. Prevent forest fires. Keep America Green.

By-gone Days

By Udeil Favre

The following article is the second about Hancock County that the Staff Correspondent for the Picayune wrote; the date it appeared in the New Orleans paper was June 1, in the year 1902 or 1903.

Pearlington, Miss., June 1.—This is one of Mississippi's great lumber manufacturing centers where millions of feet of lumber are sent to foreign ports every month. The exports for the month of March through one port, Biloxi, amounted to 13,940,982 feet, and a large portion of the output of the mills is exported through the port of New Orleans. These exports come into the city by way of Lake Borgne canal and are loaded from the barges of the lumber companies into the foreign vessels lying in the harbor in front of the city. During the same month the export shipments from the port of Pascagoula was only 12,956,000 feet, while its coastwise shipments from the port of Pascagoula was only 1,901,000 feet. A large part of the output of the Pearl River mills is shipped to New Orleans for domestic markets.

The lumber mills included in Poitevent and Favre Lumber Co., the Pearl River district are the J. A. Favre Lumber Company, at Farveport, which adjoins Pearl River, and the H. Weston Lumber Company, of Logtown, two miles further up the river. The value of the combined daily output is estimated at $4,000.

Pearlington is, possibly, one of the oldest lumber manufacturing points in the state. Captain W. J. Poitevent was the first in the forests here. Long before the war the sound of his saws echoed and re-echoed up and down the bends of the Pearl River. The firm, Poitevent and Favre, was organized much later, and today the big mills at Pearlington belong to the Poitevent and Favre Lumber Company. The daily capacity of this mill is 125,000 feet, and of the planer 30,000 feet. The cut is yellow pine and almost wholly for export. The better grades go to the European markets, while the other goes to the Latin Americas.

The Pelican saw mill, in New Orleans, belongs to the same company. The capacity of this mill is 50,000 feet. This company owns much of the timber land in St. Tammany and the adjoining parishes in Louisiana. The East Louisiana railroad was also built by this company, and is yet used to bring the logs to Pearl River. The logs are floated down the stream to the mills and are taken right from the water upon the conveyors to the saws.

The company owns a line of schooners, barges and tugs that conveys the lumber to the sides of the foreign vessels at Gulfport and Ship Island to New Orleans by way of the Lake Borgne canal, where it is loaded for export. "Three hundred employees are kept busy here besides the small army of men in the logging camps and on the water."

The officers of the company are F. B. Hayne, president; W. J. Poitevent, vice-president; John Poitevent, secretary and auditor; Eads Poitevent, treasurer. "The whistle on this mill is something to be remembered. It is of the variety known as the sirens and was brought from France many years ago by Captain John Poitevent."

"The Hancock County Bank of Bay St. Louis opened a branch bank here a few days ago, which is managed by E. C. Baillentine. A neat brick building two stories high, was erected for the bank which is an ornament as well as being a great convenience. The officers of the bank are Peter Hellwege, president; Joseph F. Cazeneuve, vice-president; Eugene H. Roberts, cashier; Peter Tudury, assistant cashier. The directors are Joseph F. Cazeneuve, F. R. Dunbar, M. V. Dunbar, Pete Hellwege, E. H. Hoffman, Charles Marshall, H. S. Weston, W. J. Poitevent and Eugene H. Roberts.

"Pearlington is connected with the outside world by telegraph and by the Pearl River. Long distance telephone will soon be put in, and a branch railroad is an early possibility. The Louisville and Nashville Railroad Company and the Ansley Land and Improvement Company are both coupled with the rumors of a new railroad."

"Pearlington is noted for the large number of commodious cottages it contains. Almost every employee of the mills, as well as the mill owners, own their own homes. There is nothing palatial, but all are neat and comfortable, in the midst of well-kept flower gardens. The wants of the people are supplied by the large and well-stocked stores belonging to the company and by private individuals. One of the latest stores established here is a small general merchandise store, by Fenn Brothers, with C. E. Fenn in charge."

"Though Pearlington is an old town, it has never been incorporated, but there is a movement on foot for that purpose. Like all new ventures, it has its opposition and its supporters."

"Farveport is located on Pearl River, near-by Pearlington, and is the first landing above. It was established a little over a year ago when the J. A. Favre Lumber Company was incorporated, and the saw and planing mills built. The daily cutting capacity of the saw mill is 50,000 feet, and the planer, which is not yet complete, will have a capacity of 40,000 feet. The cut is yellow pine and almost the entire product is exported. The mill turns out rough and dressed lumber, cross-ties, laths and piling. The officers of the company are J. A. Favre, president, and general manager; J. J. Favre, vice-president and store manager; Simon Favre, secretary and auditor; William Rudolf, treasurer."

"The saw mill is running now day and night, but fails to keep up with the orders coming in. This company also has a New Orleans office."

"This is one of the best equipped saw mill plants in the South. It is lighted by electricity, which is generated at the mills; has its own steamboats and barges, and a railway that will be extended as the necessity demands. The company owns vast tracts of virgin pine forests, which will be penetrated by their logging road. The town site of Farveport contains 2,000 acres that borders on Pearl River and extends back into the pines. Over 300 men are employed who are now building homes in the new town. The department store is one of the finest in the state. It is built of brick and is two stories high with good plate-glass display windows and electric lights. The goods are attractively arranged, and few, if any, city stores, no larger, present such a pleasing appearance."

HOME AGENT NOTES

Color Is Important In Homes

By MISS MADGE ALLRED

Doesn't this time of the year make you want to do some face lifting in your home? Making your home more attractive will provide a more gracious and congenial background for your family and you'll benefit from it too. Whether your home is fresh from the blueprint stage or the same old address you've had for years, color is the most important item in it.

Old furniture can be made young again with slip covers that are color minded. All year-round slip covers are being used in more and more homes, with two or more changes to give variety.

Slip covers are no longer just furniture protection. Instead they are a decorative asset to any style room. They can be informal for a cottage type house or tailored and sophisticated for a modern home.

CINDERELLA PRODUCT
Try decorating your furniture with slip covers, and you'll swell with pride to see an old dingy piece of furniture change into an elegant Cinderella product right before your eyes.

If you can make a dress you can make a slip cover. Plenty of pins, patience and perseverance are the requirements. Add a well chosen material to these three requirements and you should be able to make a well fitted and smartly tailored cover.

FIRST ATTEMPT

With your first attempt start with a chair that has simple, straight lines that will be easy to cover. Be sure your upholstery is in good condition, that there are no sagging springs or unrepaired parts out of order before you start your cover.

Select a fabric well worth the money, time and energy you will spend. The material should have good color, design and texture and be durable. A firm closely woven material holds its shape and tailors better than the loosely woven sleazy fabrics.

In combining various fabrics, follow the decorator's Rule of Three. In the average size room use three varied fabrics, a print, a stripe and a plain fabric. On the other hand, you may combine an all-over print with a striped flower treatment or a plain fabric with a plaid fabric.

Keep the color treated or pleasantly contrasted and the patterns in scale with each other. Formal fabrics as satin or brocade look silly with sailcloth or denim.

CHOOSE FAVORITE COLORS
Rooms should be just as becoming as dresses. Choose your favorite colors. Do not use bright colors in large areas. Keep them for small accent notes or trim. When you have several colors in a room, have one of them vivid, the second bright or pale and the third color gray or dull. If you are in doubt about your color scheme, choose a lovely fabric and let it guide you.

Determine the color and design you choose by the piece of furniture, the scale and personality of the room and what you really like. Don't put a large bold design on a small spindly chair or a small dainty design on a large bulky piece of furniture.

Cotton fabric is favored for slip covers. The kind of cotton material will depend on the chair to be covered. A bedroom chair may have an attractive gingham or chintz cover. The living room chair will want a heavier fabric such as sailcloth or herringbone twill.

You will be wasting your time, money and effort if you choose a fabric for your living room furniture that will not stand wear, hold its shape, be free from too much wrinkling and retain its color after washing. When you buy pre-shrunk fabrics you are assured of a more perfect fit after frequent washings. A pre-shrunk label generally allows for only percent of residual shrinkage to a yard of fabric and this amount is insignificant in an article the size of a slip cover.

If you have a favorite chair, but the budget won't stand a re-upholstering job or even a made-to-order slip cover, see your home demonstration agent and make your own.

EVERYONE IS LISTED IN THE 1950 CENSUS

So you think you aren't listed in the census?

You say that several censuses have been conducted during your lifetime but you've never seen a Census taker?

Do you want to lay a small wager that the Bureau of the Census at Washington does not have you listed in its records?

The chances are about a thousand to one that you would lose your bet. Of course there is always a remote chance that an occasional individual is overlooked. If you have been on the American scene for three or four decades the odds against your having been overlooked in all of these censuses are astronomical.

Believe it or not, some babies miss out on their first census because the parents forget to mention the infant when the Census taker stops by. To safeguard against this, the Census Bureau has equipped its Census takers with a special infant card on which all babies born in the months of January, February, or March of this year will be listed. The infant also will be listed on the regular Census of Population record. This double assurance is given that the babies will be counted in the 1950 Census. The information given on the infant card also is used for checking birth registration records to determine how nearly complete birth registration records are. This is important because the Census Bureau's annual population estimates for the Nation and the States are involved.

Likewise, the Census taker has difficulty in catching up with transients, people who are traveling away from their homes at Census taking time. In cases where some members of the family remain at home, the information on the missing ones is obtained there. But many people do not maintain a permanent home base, or they live alone and when they are away there is none to provide the Census taker with the information. So the Census Bureau makes special provision for this too.

The evening of April 11, 1950 was designated as "T-Night" by the Census Bureau. On that evening, specially trained enumerators were stationed in the lobbies of all hotels in the country to assist hotel guests in making out their Census reports. In cooperation with hotel authorities, individual Census report forms were distributed to all hotel guests. They filled out these reports and left them with the Census representatives in the lobby.

The enumeration of transients has presented a problem of coverage at every Census. For this reason, the Census Bureau makes an intensive drive to enumerate, in a single evening, the occupants of certain places usually devoted to housing transients. In addition to hotels, these included such places as tourist courts, and "Y's," Missions and cheap one-night lodging houses ("flophouses") were also covered by a similar procedure on another evening.

To make assurance double sure, the Census Bureau publishes, through cooperation of local newspapers and radio stations just before the close of the Census a notice calling attention to the approaching end and requesting all persons who believe that they have not been enumerated to get in touch with the local Census district supervisor or crew leader.

Mississippi 4-H Food Preparation Champs Are In The Making

The 1950 champions in the National 4-H Food preparation program are now in the making, and Mississippi's 4-Hers are hard at work perfecting their culinary arts. National, state and county awards will be presented to the youthful cooks at the end of the year for outstanding achievement.

Awards on a national basis have been offered in the food preparation program for 16 years, and activity in the project is still going strong. Ranging in age from 10 to 21, girls and boys "learn by doing" which is the 4-H way. Number of meals and different dishes prepared annually runs well over 20 million.

An example of what's being done in Mississippi is the record of Rose Rushing, 18, of Tylertown, the 1949 State champion. During nine years in 4-H she became an expert meal planner, having cooked and served some 9,000 meals for her family and more than 1,100 separate dishes. She also did a great deal of gardening and preserving. Rose participated in prize-winning exhibits and demonstrations.

Forty-eight girls were awarded county medals last year for outstanding accomplishments in preparing and serving meals.

Definite objectives outlined in the program aim to give the youth a well-rounded basic knowledge of selecting, preparing and serving food. Their personal eating habits are improved, and often the whole family benefits by what

The reason many diseases and bodily incoordinations go on for years without relief or cure is due to the approach used in coping with the condition.

The underlying and basic cause for disease is usually obscure and removed from the symptoms or even the organ affected in the disease.

If you have a health problem which seems to resist every effort made to correct it; it would be wise to consult your Chiropractor for usually he is able to locate and remove these hidden causes of disease. The result being a return to normal function and health.

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

Our "Mayor" Is Only
16 Years Old

Poked my head into Mayor Howard's door the other day at Town Hall and took a second look in a hurry. Sitting at the Mayor's desk was "Butch" Carter—president of the Junior Class over at the High School.

"Hello, Mr. Marsh," says Butch. "Can I help you?" The high school pupil took over for the day! They elected their own officers, "ran the town," and learned a little something about the responsibility of local government.

We grow up, too, might sometimes take a little lesson in accepting responsibility. If you look at the Brewers' Self-Regulation program, you see what I mean. Most retailers cooperate by accepting the responsibility to keep their places clean and orderly—right up to the letter of the law—beyond any possible reproach.

From where I sit, knowing and accepting our responsibilities—whether in government or business—is one sure way to build a better country. The public's good is our own good at all times!"

Why The Catholic Church Says "INVESTIGATE!"

Probably not more than a handful of people hate the Catholic Church as it really is.

But many have heard anti-Catholic calumnies from sources they have been taught to respect, and have come to fear and suspect the church as it has been falsely represented to them.

It is hardly reasonable to believe that 25 millions of Americans would remain in the Catholic Church if the rumors circulated against the Church are true. Nor would thousands of others become Catholics every year if they believed such things—without inquiring into the facts.

That is why the Catholic Church says again and again to people everywhere: "Investigate! Investigate!"

The Church makes this appeal not merely to settle an argument, nor primarily to win the good-will of the non-Catholic people, although this is a hoped-for result.

In more important aim is to invite people to inquire into Christ's truth as taught and preserved by the Catholic Church down through the centuries. For no man, seeking the salvation of his own soul, can conscientiously discount the Catholic claim to be Christ's Church on the basis of mere rumor and slander when the truth is so readily at hand.

The Catholic Church therefore invites you to inquire into its teaching and practices... to find out for yourself if what you believe about the Church is true or false. Learn for yourself, for instance, if it is true that Catholics give divine worship to Mary, the Mother of Christ... or if this is not just another calumny. If you have been led to believe that Catholics worship idols and statues... buy and sell the divine worship of the Mass... are opposed to the religious freedom granted all religions by our Bill of Rights, then you have been deceived and misled.

If you have harbored these or any other false beliefs about the Catholic Church and its teachings... and if, above all, such misunderstanding has kept you from examining the Catholic claim to be the Church established by Christ Himself... you owe it to yourself in good conscience to seek the truth.

We shall be glad to send you free on request, a booklet dealing with the points mentioned here and many others... including the attitude of the Church toward Birth Control... secret societies... the salvation of non-Catholics... why Catholic priests are called "Fathers"... the Inquisition and the alleged goings-on behind convent walls. Write today... ask for your copy of Pamphlet No. 7—EC.

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS
BAY ST. LOUIS, MISS.

Did You Know?

By J. ROLAND WESTON

In the January 1949 issue of the JOURNAL OF MISSISSIPPI HISTORY there is an article entitled, "The Beginning of Jackson County," this article was written by Richard A. McLenore and Nannie Pitts McLenore.

In this article there is one paragraph that should be of interest to people of Bay St. Louis, and Hancock County. It reads as follows:

"The colonists began further explorations of the coast after Iberville's departure. Under Bienville's leadership five men in two bark canoes explored Pascagoula Bay in August, Round Island, Dauphin Island, Mobile Bay, Horn Island and Ship Island were also explored on this journey. In the next month the Bay of St. Louis was located. This was all done around 1699. Here the explorers found game of every kind in abundance. The narrative tells us that they killed more than fifty deer, wild turkeys, and most surprisingly of all, buffalos. The river of the Pearls was named after the practice of the Indians living in the vicinity of scraping out there canoes—with shells in which pearls were occasionally found."

Who would have ever thought that buffalo existed in this part of the United States?

Woods-Burner Turns Tree-Lover; He's Happier, Wiser and Richer

(Story and pictures by Donald Colmer)

The Big Level of Stone county, just east of Wiggins, is one of the richest farming areas in South Mississippi. Blackloam topsoil is underlaid with a red clay subsoil. Fringing The Level is the heavy belt of pine timber that covers the Red Creek watershed.

On an ancient homestead between The Level and Red Creek, Boaz Luther "Bud" O'Neal, a 52-year-old tree farmer, is the principal character of a Cinderella story of modern forestry conservation. The method of his conversion from a woods-burner to a tree-grower is astoundingly simple, but it is a perfect illustration of the gradual trend by South Mississippi land owners toward better conservation practices.

The story is best told in Bud's own words—just as he related it to Mike Stark, International Paper company forester, Charlie McCall, a timber contractor, and this reporter as they sat by a fire in the living room of the log home built by his parents sixty-five years ago.

"I have 2460 acres and 2400 acres are in timber. I was operating a store in Mobile sixteen years ago and came home for a week's vacation. My week isn't quite up yet, because I never returned.

The Trees Got Him

"I guess it was these trees that got me. I just stayed on looking after them and never have found time to go back to Mobile.

"Every year I had set fire to my woods. Don't ask me why—we were taught that it was the thing to do. Then the U. S. Forest service prosecuted some good friends of mine several years ago for burning the woods—and that made me burn them even more. I guess I was just prejudiced against the forest service.

"I got my eyes opened up four years ago. I sold the stumps on my land for $1200. That sounds like a pretty poor price for the heavy stand of stumps I had, but I know now that it was a mighty good price.

"When the contractor pushed out those stumps, he left some pieces of lightwood behind. That year, I didn't burn the woods because I wanted to get that lightwood out for firewood the next winter. However, I got pretty busy and another winter rolled around with plenty of that lightwood still on the ground. I kept the fire out another year.

He Saw The Light

"The next summer when I went in the woods to get out firewood, the grass was full of pine seedlings. When I saw them, the light struck me for the first time I could see what I had been burning up every year.

"I went to the forest service to ask for advice on how to take care of my seedlings. Vaden Loveless of the Mississippi Forest service went over my lands with me and showed me how to mark my timber and how to make it pay.

"I went to every forestry meeting and to every tree-growing demonstration I could attend. When I learned how to take care of my timber, I started working on my neighbors to teach them what I had learned after so many years.

"They were prejudiced, too, but when I brought them over here and showed them what I was doing, I finally convinced them all that I was right. I'm helping them mark their timber now. Every one of them is 'converted.' "I'm raising poles and pulpwood for market now. At my age, I can't hope to grow any sawlogs, but I want this young timber to be here to take care of the next generation. My life work now is this timber—and I love it.

"My greatest ambition is to leave this timber so that when my boys and Charlie's boys are our age, they will be buying and selling it from this same tract just as Charlie and I are doing today."

Bud's crop of 4-year-old seedlings is coming along fine, standing rich and green out in the brown grass. Across the local road leading to the homestead is a bare field where the annual burnings of another land-owner have kept it clean of seedlings. "That's how my land used to look," Bud commented.

Sold Sheep And Hogs

Bud pulled the grass away from a stunted seedling and showed the deformed, abnormal branching at ground level. "Sheep did this by eating out the terminal bud," he explained. "I used to have 300 head of sheep on this land. After I found out how valuable my seedlings were, I sold all the sheep—they were costing me too much money in timber."

He said hogs are even worse than sheep and told how he had seen an old sow rooting up dozens of seedlings to feed to her brood.

"I sold my hogs, too," he added. "Bud doesn't do much hunting or fishing, even though wild life is abundant on his land. He explained that he hadn't gotten very interested in hunting, but that the sound of fox hounds running through the woods was beginning to tempt him just a bit.

That's Bud's story, but there is still more to add to the simple testimony of this Stone County woodsman.

There is another chapter; it's about the way of life followed by the O'Neal family. In the great house of hemm timbers live his aged mother, Mrs. A. E. (Flora) O'Neal, still spry at the age of 83 and able to sew a fine seam with her fingers; and his two maiden sisters, Pocahontas and Mae. Both enjoy great renown along Red Creek as two of the finest cooks in the South.

What A Meal!

For example, they set before us fried pork, boiled jowl, stewed "liver and lights," rice, gravy, collard greens, corn bread, hot biscuits, home-made pickles, baked sweet potato, home-made butter, fig preserves and milk.

Their home, shaded by a row of magnificent live-oaks planted by Bud's father 65 years ago, has electricity, is equipped with a butane heating system and has its own water system.

Otherwise, the fine old home is virtually unchanged from the way it looked when Bud's parents first waded the branch which separates it from the Big Level and cut their home from the wilderness. (Courtesy Hattiesburg American.)

COUNTY AGENT'S NOTES

Ammate Is a Good Tree Poison

By Howard F. Simmons

"Ammate," a trade name for ammonium sulfamate, is a good tree poison.

Late summer, fall and winter are better than spring or early summer. Double dosage should be used in the spring and early summer. Spraying should be done in late summer and early fall while the leaves are still green.

1. Make cups or notches at the base of the trunk as close to the ground as possible. A cup is made by cutting out a chip with two licks of a sharp ax. Make one cut two inches above the other about one inch deep. Apply chemical immediately.

Two cups are enough for trees 3 to 6 inches in diameter. On larger trees cups should be spaced 6 inches apart around the tree. A 1 to 12 inch tree takes about five cups.

Place one level tablespoon of crystals in each cup. Crystals are absorbed in two to three days. Do not cut trees down for one year after poisoning. This reduces sprouting. Some trees may not die until the second growing season.

2. Trees three inches or less, too small to cup, may be cut down close to the ground leaving a V-shaped stump. One heaping teaspoonful of crystals per stump is enough.

3. When land is cleared with a power saw or other tool cutting stumps flat at ground level, a strong solution of eight pounds of crystals in one gallon of water can be brushed on the stump. Use an old paint brush and brush on heavily.

4. Sprouts and small bushes can be sprayed with a solution of four pounds of Ammate in one gallon of water. Leave sprouts or bushes standing for one year after spraying.

Any pressure type spray can be used. Willow bushes along ditches or canals can be sprayed and killed at minimum cost. It is hard to cut them and apply on stumps or get in ditch or canal.

and apply crystals as in pastures or woods.

Seed and feed stores, co-ops and mail order houses are offering Ammate for sale. If the material is not being sold locally, ask your dealer to handle it. Demand for this poison is heavy and increasing.

It is more economical to buy 50 pound or larger quantities. One to five pound packages are more expensive.

Ammate will kill practically all the common trees. It works slowly on hickory, bitter pecan, beech, crimson and white oak. These require a heavier dose than the others.

Ammate costs from 50 cents per pound in one pound lots to 18 cents per pound in 350-pound drums. Some stores will sell small amounts at 20 to 25 cents per pound.

At 18 cents per pound, the cost of Ammate for treating trees less than 3 inches in diameter is approximately one-half cent per tree; 3 to 6 inch trees, 1 cent per tree; a tree 8 to 10 inches in diameter requiring 4 cups, 2 cents. On an acre basis this runs $3 to $4 per acre for material. Dense stands of sprouts 1 to 3 feet high can be sprayed at a cost of $15 to $20 per acre.

Other materials are available which will kill trees and bushes, but most of the common ones are poisonous to livestock. Ammate is not poisonous to livestock.

CAUTION: Do not store crystals in open paper container as crystals take up moisture from the air and become liquid.

Ammate is corrosive to some metals, especially brass. Wash all equipment thoroughly after using and rinse in lime or baking soda water.

REMEMBER:

1. Use in late summer, fall or winter.

2. Ammate will not kill livestock.

3. It kills pasture as well as trees. Use carefully.

4. Follow Directions.
